Dear Dr. Zheng:

Thank you for agreeing to write reviews for inclusion in the Mathematical Reviews Database. We will from time to time request that you review a particular article, book, or other publication, and if you agree to do so, your review will be governed by this letter of agreement.

In order to facilitate our administration of copyright in the Mathematical Reviews Database and products derived from it, each review you write for us must be considered a “work made for hire” within the meaning of U.S. copyright law. (That is a legal term and does not imply financial compensation.)

The result of this agreement is that copyright in your reviews will be owned by the American Mathematical Society. However, we do not wish to prevent you from making other scholarly uses of your reviews. You may post your reviews on your website, circulate them to colleagues, distribute copies to your students, and make other customary scholarly uses. You may even include your reviews in journals, books, and databases in the particular field(s) of mathematics to which they relate, provided that first publication credit is given to the AMS. If for any reason any review we commission you to write should be ineligible for “work made for hire” status, you agree that the American Mathematical Society will own all rights in the review. This will not alter your ability to make the uses described above.

You warrant that each review you submit to us will be your own sole original work, and will not have been previously published, or accepted for publication, elsewhere.

This agreement will be governed by U.S. federal law and by the laws of Rhode Island. Any waiver or amendment must be in writing and signed by both of us. To indicate your consent to the terms of this letter, please return the original or a copy of this letter, bearing your signature, to the above address.

Yours sincerely,

Edward Dunne
Executive Editor
